International Women’s Day

International Women’s Day known as well as “8M” is a demonstration and celebration that fights for Women’s rights. Today we’re going to talk about what our high school does to celebrate it.

Our high school celebrated this because many years ago, women had no rights to do almost anything and as a consequence, they all fought for these rights. However, this situation changed some years ago, even if they don’t have the same rights as men nor the same liberty as they have these days.

Our high school has done many good things to contribute to this movement, such as many activities about it, we celebrated it by wearing purple clothing, there were many posters posted about it around the school, and big projects, such as making a table chart with what could and couldn’t women do in the past, in the present, and in the future. Or even an actuation made by students from higher grades. Furthermore, we could even miss school if we had proof about going to the demonstration and a work done which shows you are interested and support the cause.

OUR OPINION

We think that this day is very important for women as it has achieved many good things and made women do things they weren't able to do.

Furthermore, our high school has contributed to this day by doing many good things, projects, and activities. Which made people realize how important this day is.

The History of our school

Almost every one of the students in the school knows about the school history, but not everyone knows exactly how this became a school.

Our high school celebrated this because many years ago, women had no rights to do almost anything and as a consequence, they all fought for these rights. However, this situation changed some years ago, even if they don't have the same rights as men nor the same liberty as they have these days.

It all started in 1902, the Real Patronage of the "Trata de Blancas" was created. Later in 1931 according to the 2nd Republic the patronage was dissolved. But in September of the same year the patronage for protection of Women was created and the building was extended to give more protection to women. So in 1935 the tolerance to prostitution was abolished, and as a result of this the last patronage was dissolved again.

The patronage was reorganized by 1941 under the order of Franco, and the second patronage for protection of women was created. In all this time Until 1980 was used as a maternity, Women treaty and children treaty were occasionally and wasn't illegal. Lots of women lost their children because rich people paid the nurses to tell a mother that her baby had died, took it and gave it to the buyer.

A case of overcoming

Today we are going to talk about a special case of overcoming in our school. Fabian from 3rd ESO - C has recently passed an operation due to a condition on his feet called pigeons’ toe.

He has these condition since he was born and Fabian had been dealing with lots and lots of problems and challenges for a long time, even nowadays he’s dealing with difficulties and obstacles of the recent operation.

Actually, Fabian is feeling bad and useless because he can’t do anything by himself as he needs to be sitting down on a wheelchair, so as he can’t do what he likes the most which are sports, he can’t run or even walk due to the operation.

Furthermore, he’s advancing very well and very fast cause he’s able to walk with crutches for a short period of time.

Fortunately, he has been receiving lot of support from his family and, also, from his friends, but he isn’t recovered yet, so he still needs help and support from all his friends and his family.

What we think

We all think this is a case of overcoming because after feeling useless and feeling lot of pain, not just physically but also emotionally, Fabian has never give up and he’s looking forward and making lot of effort to achieve, what he calls, “normality”. Fabian is a moral example, and we should learn from him.

Skiing trip

I

During the first week of March the students of 3°ESO went on a skiing trip to Jaca, at the Astún station in the Pyrenees. They stayed there for 5 days, and the journey took them 5 hours. They stopped twice on the journey and finally, at half-past three they got to the Oroel hotel. After checking in, they walked around the city to get to know it a little. After that, they had dinner and had some short free time.

The routine was simple: waking up at 7:30, having breakfast, going to the slopes. On the slopes, they had lessons with an instructor for 3 hours. After skiing they had lunch. The rest of the time was free. However, we were only allowed to practice on the same level of difficulty slopes. After skiing they had lunch they went to the hotel to rest. At half-past eight they had dinner in the hotel. Finally, the students went to their rooms to sleep.

On the third day, after skiing, they went to the caves of 'Las Guixas', which was a little frozen, and there were stalactites and bats.

The last day, the morning was normal, but after skiing, they started the trip homewhich took 5 hours, and they then arrived at quarter past ten. In the middle of the trip, the monitors gave each student a diploma with their ski levels, from A being the lowest to E++ being the highest. Most of the students were A's and others were higher

The creepy ghost that lure the hallways of the les Isaac Newton

Most of you may know something about the creepy past of our highschool, that kids were sold... But do you know something about the ghosts that lure the abandoned hallways of the 4th floor ?

There are only 2 known ghosts:

“La llorona”: She was a girl whose baby was taken away from her and she committed suicide when she saw her baby taken away by jumping out of the window . When you go to the 4th floor at night you can hear her open the doors of the abandoned hallways and also you can hear her jumping out of the window as it happened to her.

The nun: She was a nun who used to guard the hallways at night. When you go to the les Isaac Newton at night you can hear her open the doors of every classroom (even though they are locked) in order to check that everything is normal

The only known person who has seen them both is the janitor Isabel who used to live in the highschool and guarded the hallways at night. Sadly she retired last year and nowadays no one guards the hallways at night anymore
